

Grenfell Inquiry Report drop-ins and public meetings

Tell the Council what you want to see from our response

The Phase 2 report of the Grenfell Tower Inquiry was published on Wednesday 4 September.

The Council has apologised to the bereaved, survivors and local community for its failure to listen to residents and to protect them.

The Council could, and should, have done more to keep people safe in their homes and to care for all of its residents in the aftermath of the fire.

The Council is now taking time to consider the report in detail and will be publishing a summary in September of what we think the findings mean for the Council and our relationship with residents.

We want to create opportunities for you to challenge us on this and tell us what changes you want to see from the Council's response to the Inquiry report.

We would encourage those who would like to attend to register your interest for the public meetings on Eventbrite or by email on the details below.
